Bears

You must have seen in pictures that some bears are brown, some are white and some are black. Well, there are eight different types of bears in the world. Mostly bears are found in Asia, Europe and North and South America.

Polar bears are the biggest bears to be found. They are found near the North Pole where there is plenty of snow. They keep themselves warm with their white fur coat on their bodies. Polar bears catch fish and seals from the sea water to survive.

Panda is also a type of bear. Pandas are found mostly in China and they eat a special type of bamboo plant to survive.

Brown bears may eat many other things besides fish. They may have wild berries, honey, insects and nuts. They are wild animals and live in caves in forests.
